

ABSTRACT

A type of data among road data, route search data and route guidance data or a type of background data is specified to be updated. When updating either one of the road data, 5 the route search data and the route guidance data, the entire data of the corresponding type stored in a hard disc 12 are updated. When updating the type of background data, data are updated in units of blocks corresponding to a specified range.